

MR. ASQUITH ON THE WAR THE COMPULSION QUESTION.

The Prime Minister made a general statement on the war situation in the House of Commons on Tuesday. He recapitulated the part played by the Empire during the past fifteen months, and replied to criticisms of the Government upon their conduct of the war.

THE PERSONAL NOTE.

The Special Correspondent of The Yorkshire Observer writes: The summary of the Prime Minister's statement in the House of Commons on Tuesday is a masterpiece of clear and simple statement.

have happened if it had not been undertaken. It was at least probable that the Russians might have been successful in their attack on the Caucasus.

DOMESTIC ADJUSTMENTS.

The Prime Minister paid Mr. Lloyd George the compliment of quoting his able and comprehensive summary of the part which we had to play in the furtherance of the war.

SIR EDWARD CARSON.

The Chief Opposition spokesman in the House of Commons on Tuesday was Sir Edward Carson, the Leader of the Opposition.

BRITAIN'S FINANCIAL STRENGTH.

INTERVIEW WITH MR. RUNCIMAN.

An interview with Mr. Walter Runciman (President of the Board of Trade) appeared in The Observer Daily News on Saturday. It was seen by Mr. Edward Price Bell, the London correspondent of that journal.

NO COMPULSION.

The head of every one of the hundreds of trading firms in Great Britain and Ireland is a small number of specialists who have not expressed approval of British policy.

BRITISH AND GERMAN LOANS.

What is the difference between the German and British loans? asked the interviewer. Runciman replied that he had to support his loans by artificial means.

GIANTIC PURCHASES IN AMERICA.

How do you account for the depreciation of the pound sterling in New York? Mr. Runciman was asked. The Minister replied: What is the explanation of the depreciation of the mark?

IF GERMANY WINS?

MR. SADLER ON THE ISSUES OF THE WAR.

The district that would befall England in the event of the war being won by Germany was fore-shadowed by Mr. Michael E. Sadler (Vice-Chancellor of the University of Leeds) in an address delivered on Sunday to a large audience at the Hippodrome.

NO EMIGRATION.

In the meantime, in order that the taxable resources of the United Kingdom should be kept alive, emigration would be stopped, and the population would be compelled to work hard.

IF PEACE BE INDETERMINATE.

Or, to examine another alternative, what would actually happen if the war ended in an indefinite truce? asked the interviewer. Mr. Sadler replied that in order to meet the needs of the war, and not to allow the German navy to be built up, it would be necessary to restrict the number of ships built in British yards.

In connection with a well-organized recruiting campaign which has been begun at Batley, a meeting was held on Thursday in the Market Place, the principal speaker being Mr. W. Wilkie Crooks (M.P. for Batley).

The Vice-Chancellor of the University (Dr. H. A. L. Fisher) addressed a large audience in the Great Hall of Leeds University on Wednesday on "The Influence of Magna Charta."

LIMITATIONS AND STRONG POINTS.

The doctrine that all taxation requires Parliamentary assent was sometimes traced back to the Great Charter, yet such broad principles were confined in it. Neither was the document inspired by any abstract notion of equality or liberty.

CANDID CRITICISMS.

Having regard to the fact that our imports are valued at £200,000,000 a year, it is not surprising that steps should be taken to reduce our consumption of imported goods.
